

As has been the tradition, the ESS/CI will again provide travel support to student presenters at this year's Combustion Symposium in Beijing. We anticipate making awards of $1,000 to ESS/CI student presenters of accepted papers at the Symposium (1 honorarium per student, 1 per paper). The presenter must be an author of an accepted paper (not a work-in-progress poster) and must be a current degree candidate at a college or university in the Eastern States Section at the time of the 33rd Symposium. Please note that the size of the individual award may be adjusted depending on the number of applications within our allocated budget.

Please send me the following information by 15 May so we can assemble our final budget. I will then be able to send an email confirmation with an award amount by the end of May.

Paper number:
Student presenter's name:
Degree and expected completion date:
